Aloysius P. Kelley, S.J.

This morning we are dedicating the Class of 2004's yearbook, entitled "Bigger and Better." This title is fitting considering our class is the largest in Fairfield's history – not only in size but also in accomplishments. The Class of 2004 has more than just a strong academic record – through these four years we have excelled in athletics, fine arts, sciences, business, community service and so much more.

Just as our class has helped to make Fairfield University "Bigger and Better," so has the person we have chosen for this year's dedication, Fr. Kelley. Through 25 years of service and commitment, Fr. Kelley has overseen the continued growth of Fairfield University.

He has played a large role in creating new facilities as well as renovating and expanding our existing campus, bringing us buildings that we know as the DiMenna-Nyselius Library, Bannow Science Center and Barone Campus Center. In addition, he has been instrumental in implementing new academic programs including Asian Studies, Environmental Studies, International Studies, Women's Studies and many others. Fr. Kelley has also increased Fairfield's Endowment immensely. Furthermore, he has strengthened Fairfield's identity and commitment to Jesuit ideals. These are just a few of the numerous accomplishments achieved throughout his career.

These accomplishments demonstrate how Fr. Kelley embodies the "Bigger and Better" spirit of this 2004 yearbook. And so we, the editors and staff of The Manor, are honored to dedicate our book to Reverend Aloysius P. Kelley, the seventh president of Fairfield University.

Academics

It's almost painful for some of Dr. Michael Brienza's students to admit how much they enjoyed a physics course.

As a professor of physics at Fairfield University who, along with regular physics courses, teaches core courses, Dr. Brienza is accustomed to having students in class who are there for only one reason: to fulfill their science requirement and move on. But as one student put it in an essay nominating Dr. Brienza for Teacher of the Year, his courses aren't the customary treks through arcane formulas and stultifying lab experiments.

"This is no ordinary physics class," wrote sophomore Mary Vingelen, in her nomination form. "I have learned more about life and myself because of Dr. Mike. He urges us to 'be passionate about something, and don't do anything if you're not passionate about it.' He teaches us not to take anything for granted, and to do our best at everything we do. Dr. Mike is an extraordinary teacher, mentor and friend, and I am a better person because I have had the wonderful opportunity to get to know him."

"I am just people I serve, very sincerely, tell good job," Dr.

M a k i n g has been Dr. since he began University in to incorporate applications, career, for the teaches.

Teacher of the Year

Ph.D., an associate professor of biology at the University, redesigned the physics curriculum to base much of the learning and experiments on human physiology.

"Did you know that the brain uses a tremendous amount of its computing power just to keep you erect? It interprets messages from the ears about balance, and all in all keeps this tall, awkward body balancing on two relatively small feet. We have students measure parts of the body, and learn about stability, forces and torques. We use headphones to demonstrate how the ears locate sound and determine where it comes from. In the lab, we have students measure their own eyes and write a prescription for themselves." The point, he says, is not just to make the learning fun. "I want them to see that it's relevant," he says.

Indeed, Dr. Brienza stresses the relevance of physics to a variety of careers in the everyday world. His own background helps. Dr. Brienza holds a BS and Ph.D. in physics from the University of Notre Dame. Dr. Brienza has worked in a variety of industries, from aerospace to the sewing machine business, and holds 29 patents in everything from lasers to sewing machines to radar.

“Michael Brienza is truly to be admired. His enthusiasm for physics and the care and dedication he has for his students are exceptional,” said Orin Grossman, Ph.D., academic vice president of Fairfield University. “I am delighted that he is being recognized by Fairfield’s students as Teacher of the Year.”

Robert Daniel Keder

Instituted in 1952, The St. Ignatius Loyola Medal Award recognizes one senior who has committed himself/herself to the Jesuit education ideals of maintaining high academic standards and substantial involvement in community service and/or extracurricular activities. The senior should have clearly maximized opportunities for emotional, social, and intellectual growth throughout all four years on campus and best exemplifies the true spirit of a Jesuit education.

Robert D. Keder of Seymour, Conn., will receive the St. Ignatius Loyola Medal during commencement ceremonies on May 23. The Loyola Medal, the highest honor bestowed by the Fairfield University Alumni Association, is given Keder has been an essential leader of the Ballroom Dance Club, for which he has been president and treasurer. He also implemented an annual Halloween Masquerade Ball and “Dinner, Dancing & Murder,” an annual charity fundraiser.

Keder was a resident assistant and worked to implement Ignatian Residential College, a program for selected sophomores that incorporates academic, cultural, mentoring and worship opportunities. He spent his sophomore year spring break living and working on the Passamaquoddy reservation in Maine, was a Mission Volunteer to Kentucky and participated in the Urban Plunge in Bridgeport.

Keder spent three summers researching the effects of technology and literacy on children and families with Judy Primavera, Ph.D., professor of psychology. He credits Dr. Primavera and Robert Chessin, M.D., a Trumbull pediatrician who allowed Keder to “shadow” him at his practice, with fostering his desire to pursue medicine. This fall, he will begin his studies at the Loyola University Chicago Stritch School of Medicine.

Todd Jonathan Pelletier

The William J. Kramer '60 Humanitarian Award recognizes one senior and is based solely on the senior's commitment to volunteerism and service to an external community activity that best exemplifies the Ignatian tradition of being men and women for others. This award is sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. James J. Daly, P'85, '92, '93 in memory of their dear friend William J. Kramer '60, the first Fairfield University alumnus who served as the chairman of the Fairfield University Board of Trustees.

Pelletier has since he was 15, when he became a ski patroller in Maine and Junior Ski Patroller of school, he augmented completing Wilderness Emergency Medical Technician training.

Since his freshman year at Fairfield, Pelletier has volunteered for Stratford Emergency Medical Services two or three nights a week and, during his sophomore year, he was among the many volunteers called to assist following the Sept. 11, 2001 terrorist acts. He took part in the effort and helped treat patients.

Pelletier joined Stratford EMS' Special Operations Division, a unit trained to provide special assistance on atypical events in the region. He was recently promoted to the rank of lieutenant in that division.

In February, Pelletier attained another volunteer milestone: He logged his 3,000th hour with the service.

Pelletier has also worked in Hartford for American Medical Response and has been an assistant instructor for Emergency Medical Technician courses in southwestern Connecticut. In 2003, he participated in a nursing internship program in Yale-New Haven Hospital's Pediatric Emergency Room and he is pursuing a career in pediatric critical care nursing.

Student Achievement Awards

Gregory S. Iorio

Gregory S. Iorio of Ramsey, N.J., has received a Student Achievement Award from Fairfield University's Alumni Association for his dedication to the University Pep Band. He received his award during the association's annual Student Awards Dinner on Tuesday, April 20.

Iorio is known to many as president of the Fairfield University Pep Band, carrying a trombone and sporting the brightly painted face of a loyal Stag fan. He has been a dedicated member, working to gain the band club status, conducting the group and spending many hours before and after basketball games assembling and breaking down sound equipment.

When not playing, Iorio was busy working in the S.K.I.L.L. leadership training program and serving as a Eucharistic Minister. Iorio has led several retreats and helped coordinate the other Eucharistic Ministers on campus.

In addition, Iorio was an apartment and townhouse manager and president of the Residential Apartment Student Organization, working to enforce school policies while fostering a fun environment with activities and programming.

Iorio made the Dean's List each of his eight semesters and has been inducted into Beta Gamma Sigma, the national business honor society; Alpha Sigma Nu, the national Jesuit honor society; Omicron Delta Kappa, the national leadership honor society; Alpha Mu Gamma, the national foreign language honor society; and the National Residence Hall Honor Society.

After graduation, Iorio hopes to pursue an MBA.

Jessica R. Michael

Jessica Michael of Clifton Park, N.Y., has received a Student Achievement Award from Fairfield University's Alumni Association for her dedication to the Adopt-A-Grandparent program. She received her award during the association's annual Student Awards Dinner on Tuesday, April 20.

Always close to her own grandparents, Michael spends a lot of time with older residents at Bridgeport Health Care Center, where she has been a social services intern for the past two years. Noticing many could use some company, she went to a 2002 Campus Ministry meeting with a sign-up sheet and recruited about 30 volunteers who wanted to adopt a grandparent. Fairfield students continue to visit with the seniors, playing checkers, chatting and going for strolls in the sunshine, and Michael is busy training a successor to lead the vital program.

In addition to her commitment to Adopt-A-Grandparent, Michael has succeeded academically, pursuing a chemistry major and math minor and pre-med concentration. She's consistently made the Dean's List and is a member of three honor societies: Alpha Epsilon Delta, for pre-med professionals; Omicron Delta Kappa, the national leadership honor society; and Pi Mu Epsilon, for mathematics. She received the Chemistry Department's Book Award and the Analytical Chemistry Award.

Michael participated in four Theatre Fairfield productions, played intramural softball, sang with the Loyola Singers and chaired the International Student Orientation Program. In addition, she leads chemistry review sessions for freshmen and offers one-on-one tutoring. She was also part of a recent Mission Volunteer trip to Ecuador.

Michael A. Ciavaglia

Michael Ciavaglia of Emerson, N.J., has received a Student Achievement Award from Fairfield University's Alumni Association for his dedication to University and community music programs. He received his award during the association's annual Student Awards Dinner on Tuesday, April 20.

At the age of six, Ciavaglia began singing with his church choir at the Orthodox Christian Church of Christ the Savior. Two years before he entered Fairfield University, he was already an apprentice conductor for the church group.

By second semester of his freshman year, University Glee Club Director Carole Ann Maxwell had recognized his talent, naming him director and conductor of the Glee Club's Men's Ensemble. In addition, he has served as a cantor and song leader at weekly Mass at the University's Egan Chapel of St. Ignatius Loyola.

Ciavaglia has shared his time and talents off campus as well. Since his freshman year, he has been the assistant choir director for the Holy Ghost Russian Orthodox Church in Bridgeport, and, in his sophomore year, he joined the Mendelssohn Choir of Connecticut. Ciavaglia also studies voice at Yale University, where he is a member of the acclaimed Yale Russian Chorus.

Last summer, Ciavaglia worked as student conductor of the Summer Festival Chorus of the Regina A. Quick Center for the Arts and conducted the Mendelssingers, an outreach choir that brings music to hospitals and nursing homes.

"I have rehearsal just about every day of my life, but I love it," Ciavaglia said of his life's passion.

Ciavaglia is an all-around academic standout, studying three languages and consistently making the Dean's List. He sits on Fairfield's orientation board and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Alpha Sigma Nu, the national honor society of Jesuit colleges and universities.

Ciavaglia will continue his music studies as one of an elite few chosen for the Temple University conducting program.

Alpha Sigma Nu

The honoring and induction of students who distinguish themselves in scholarship, loyalty and service at Jesuit institutions of higher education is the primary purpose of Alpha Sigma Nu.

The Society encourages those so honored to understand, to appreciate and to promote the ideals of Jesuit education; to encourage the establishment and proper functioning of Chapters in accredited Jesuit institutions of higher education, as well as the establishment and proper functioning of Alumni Clubs.

Glee Club

The 2003 to 2004 season was a great one for the university Glee Club, beginning with a successful parents' weekend Mass and concert and a trip to the Boston area, where they sang at St. Mary of the Hills Church in Milton. Blizzard conditions abridged the December 1st Christmas concert and cancelled the December 2nd, but the next weekend Fairfield singers were able to bring the full program of "The Many Moods of Christmas" to St. Catherine of Sienna Church in Greenwich, Connecticut. After the Glee Club sang for a full house at St. Thomas More Church in Darien, Connecticut in February, the Chamber Singers prepared to sing Mozart's Requiem, which they did with much aplomb on April 25th with the Mendelssohn

Choir of Connecticut and the Greater Bridgeport Symphony. The Glee Club finished up the year with "Spring Fling" and a blockbuster pop's concert: "The Glee Club Takes Manhattan."

In addition to this full performance schedule, the Glee Club had its share of non-performance activities, including social events like karaoke nights at the Levee, the Glee Club semi-formal, and the famous Glee Club parties, as well as service activities like Hunger Cleanup. The Glee Club members, director Carole Ann Maxwell, DSM, and accompanist Galen Tate could all feel proud of another wonderful season. Ta-ta, farewell, STAY LOOSE!

Model United Nations

The 2003-2004 year has been an exciting one for the Model UN group. We made many trips this year including: WestPoint Academy, Yale University, McGill University, and Harvard University's World Conference that was held in Sharm El-Sheikh, Egypt.

In addition, our club was honored as "Academic Club of the Year" this 2003-2004 term. Many thanks go out to our great advisor Dr. Katherine Kidd!

Dance Ensemble

Dance Ensemble is a student-run club that includes classes in tap, jazz, ballet, modern and hip hop. Our show this year "Everybody Dance Now" was a huge success and quite possibly the best dance show ever performed! This year we have eleven graduating seniors who will be missed dearly. They are: Laura Baum, Lynn Blanchette, Shannon Casey, Corinne Clifford, Rhianne Crowley, Lorraine DelliCarpini, Kristy Farrell, Jennifer Flynn, Bridget Murphy, Christine Phillips, and Jennifer Shea.

Some of the memories for the 2004 Dance Ensemble include: dancing till 1:30am during Hell Week, having venting sessions at tap class, discussing making "progress," "What would Jenn do?" and "What would Rhianne do?" and of course, "I love Dance Ensemble!"

The Dance Ensemble was honored by the Board of Governors as the Campus Interest Club of the Year. The Dance Ensemble often works in cooperation with the Board of Governors for funding for events and assistance with the maintenance of the club.

Theatre Fairfield

Theatre Fairfield's 2003-2004 season was a diverse and exciting one. In the fall we opened with She Stoops to Conquer by Oliver Goldsmith, a classical comedy of mistaken identities, young lovers and hilarious pranksters. For this production, students delved into the world of the 18th century and found themselves in corsets, breeches and speaking in elevated language, all of which only heightened the comedy of this play. In December A Class Act was performed, which consisted of two acts: Creative Exposures and Creative Excursions. Act I was a collaborative effort between the Theatre and English Departments in that it was dramatic readings of student-written poetry and prose. Act II was an array of various kinds of performance including monologues, one act plays, songs and performance art. This production allowed for further exploration as to what performance means and can be.

In January, Theatre Fairfield's senior class performed Psycho Beach Party for their independent project. This crazy comedy had the audiences laughing until they could not laugh anymore. Directed, designed, produced and performed, all by senior students, Psycho Beach Party was an amazing opportunity that allowed the seniors to use the skills and knowledge they have learned here at Fairfield University and realize them in full production.

The seniors wish to thank The Jamie Hulley Foundation, which awards Theatre Fairfield a scholarship for independent student work each year and made this production possible.

Our spring productions included the English language world premiere of Tokyo Notes by Japanese playwright Hirata Oriza and Festival '04. Directed by Dr. Martha LoMonaco with scenic design by the first ever student main stage designer, Michele Fields, Tokyo Notes takes place in a Tokyo art gallery that is hosting an exhibition of Vermeer paintings, which have been sent to Japan for safe keeping during a war ostensibly in Europe in 2004. Tokyo Notes also touches on the difficulties of modern Japanese life, where people find themselves caught between the traditional world and the modern. What made this production even more exciting was that Hirata Oriza came from Japan to see the production and hosted talk back sessions with audiences and the company.

Festival '04, Theatre Fairfield's final production of the season, consisted of three student-written plays: The Audition by Paul DeSena '03, Mrs. Something-or-Other by Cait Davis, and 15 Minutes of Fame, Shame, & a Ruler Demise by Jared Mezzocchi. These three plays were also student directed by Alex Pavone, Danny Williams and Paul Robinson, student designed by Amanda Allen, Kristy Farrell and Michele Fields, and acted and crewed by over 20 other Theatre Fairfield students, making Festival '04 a complete student production under the guidance of faculty mentors Dr. Martha LoMonaco, Lynne Porter and Susan Haggstrom.

Also throughout the season On the Spot and Off the Wall, Theatre Fairfield's long and short form improvisation troupes performed in various venues and for different causes. In December, the improvisers performed during a blizzard in the PepsiCo because they did not want to miss their last show of the first semester when the Levee had closed. In March, the two troupes raised over $800 for Mission Volunteers and Hunger Clean-Up at the Wien Experimental Theatre show. Other performances included events such as Take Back the Night, Hunger Clean Up and the Great Campus Drink Out. Improvisation this year explored freedom in performance and living truthfully in the moment and had a blast doing so.

As seniors, we have taken our final bow on the Theatre Fairfield stage but we are not leaving this community behind. As we graduate, we take Theatre Fairfield with us in our hearts. The theatre community here at Fairfield University has been both a home and a family over the past four years and will continue to be for the rest of our lives. The friendships, loves, skills, knowledge, talents, tears and laughter that we have shared will not be forgotten. Thank you Theatre Fairfield.

Circle K International

Circle K International is one of the world's largest collegiate service organizations. A member of the Kiwanis family, Circle K International boasts a membership of more than 12,000 members on more than 525 campuses around the globe.

The Fairfield University chapter of Circle K, part of the Mystic Division of the New England District of Circle K, is dedicated to service, leadership and fellowship. Founded in 1982, Fairfield University Circle K has become an integral part of Fairfield University and the surrounding community.

Events such as the semi-annual Blood Drive, the Circle K Car Wash, and the Valentine's Day Carnation Sale have become campus traditions. Passionate about helping others, Circle Kers have organized food drives, collected clothes for the homeless, raised money for Iodine Deficiency Disorder, helped out in Special Olympics, built homes with Habitat for Humanity, served meals at Prospect House, participated in walks such as the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society's "Light the Night" Walk, the Multiple Sclerosis Walk, and the Breast Cancer Walk.

With the goal of saving children's lives, Fairfield University Circle K members have dedicated countless hours to teaching 2nd graders in local elementary schools about seat belt safety. Additionally, Circle Kers have raised $1,000 annually to donate to the Kiwanis Pediatric Trauma Institution in Boston to help kids in dire need of intensive care.

None of these events would have been possible without the dedication and selflessness of the members of Fairfield University Circle K, especially the six Circle K members of the Class of 2004. A sincere thank you to Lauren Brady, Jessica Foscolo, Marta Matselioukh, Meredith Murphy, Valerie Orent, and Kristine Poplawski for their hard work and dedication to Fairfield University Circle K.

Asian Student Assoc.

ASA enjoyed an eventful year that furthered our goal to experience and understand Asian cultures and, of course, have fun. On campus, ASA showed films such as "Better Luck Tomorrow" (Asian-American), "My Sassy Girl" (Korean), "Shall We Dance?" (Japanese), "The Scent of the Green Papaya" (Vietnamese), "Kuch Kuch Hota Hai" (Indian), and "The Debut" (Filipino-American). Most of these movies were complemented with dinners from those cultures. On certain occasions, Origami and Henna Tattoos were even taught and offered to members. ASA even got a prize during the Pumpkin Carving Contest held in October. It was a fun year all throughout.

Left: ASA headed to New York on October 8, 2003 for a cultural experience. With stops to view exhibits on Japan, Iran, and Vietnam in the Asia Society Museum and the American Museum of Natural History, we were given a glimpse of these cultures. A picnic in Central Park served as our lunch and our night was spent roaming and dining in Chinatown. Below: ASA held its successful Chinese New Year Celebration on Thursday, January 29, 2004. Attendance was amazing and diverse. There were students, alumni, faculty, administrators, staff, parents and of course, kids!! The food was great and the performances enlivened the evening's festivities. Bottom: Showing off their pumpkin at the October pumpkin carving contest.

Men's Crew

Fairfield Men's Crew has come a long way since its establishment in 1993. Once a small team with only 5 members, the crew has grown to over 40 rowers and coxswains. Although only recognized as a club sport by the University, Fairfield Men's Crew competes against nationally ranked competition including Yale, Harvard, Tufts, Boston University, Marist, Dowling, and Temple.

During the 2003/2004 season the men's team won the Dowling Championship Regatta and also the New York Metropolitan Rowing Championships for a third straight year. The team was also a strong contender in the MAAC Conference Championships and at the Dad Vail Regatta. The men's team gave its best showing ever at the prestigious Head of the Charles Regatta in Boston, Massachusetts this past fall.

Crew is a truly unique athletic experience, often regarded as the ultimate team sport. The team is proud to graduate five seniors this year: Frank Marx, Sean Frew, Connor Dowling, Kevin Farrow, and Jamail Ajaj. We wish them the best of luck.

When the whistle was blown on the 2004 Men's Soccer season in the Quarterfinals of the MAAC Tournament, it marked the final occasion for three seniors, Greg Williams, Tom Wilczewski, and Steve Wiczorek, to lace up their boots and compete for Fairfield.

The accomplishments of these young men over the course of the past four seasons have placed the Stags among the elite programs in New England and throughout the nation.

During the past four years, the Stags have compiled an impressive 41-23-11 overall record, reaching the conference finals in 2000 and 2001. The trio put the Stags on the national stage with victories against the likes of Brown and Hartwick, and hard fought ties against Virginia and UConn. The team was ranked in the Top 25 in the nation, earning the highest ranking in program history at 12 in 2001.

Although this past season the Stags faltered to a 7-8-2 record, such a mark is simply an aberration for the soccer program. The members of the graduating class have set a standard of success for Men's Soccer, and have the current and future team poised to follow through on one elusive goal for fall 2004: a National Tournament Berth.

These seniors are graciously departing from a program where they have contributed greatly. Though, it is safe to say that Williams, Wilczewski, and Wiczorek have recieved far more in return - in the form of wonderful memories of competition, and by simply being one of the soccer lads.

Field Hockey

The 2003 Fairfield field hockey team completed its season with a record of 7-13. Though the record does not reflect it, the season was filled with many highlights and successes. Some of these included a 2-1 win over Monmouth in which Kiara Nickl scored the winning goal and a 1-0 defeat of Rutgers with the lone goal being scored by Julie Knoblich. Kristen Keleher contributed an assist in a 2-1 victory of St. Joes University and Lindsay Martin and Courtney Robinson were strong at defense. Goalkeeper Lauren Thomas earned All-Patriot league honors and finished the season ranked 6th in the nation for save percentages and 5th for saves. The team contributed ten players to the Patriot League Academic Honor Roll including 5 of the 6 seniors. Overall, the careers of the 6 seniors have seen a Patriot League championship, a trip to the NCAA Sweet 16 and four great seasons.

Men's

Cross Country

Throughout my time spent at Fairfield, I have considered my position on the cross-country team to be one of the fondest memories of my college experience. Since my arrival to the team in 2001, I have had a number of noteworthy teammates, but none do I share greater memories with than the class of 2004.

I remember watching Mike Dougherty run through injuries during the 2001 season, looking upon him as one of the toughest runners I have ever known. I remember the intensity Matt Borland showed during the 2002 season, using his intelligence and ability as a runner to guide the team to a great season. I recall witnessing Jess Illustrato run his best races in his final season, and feeling joy at seeing a teammate end his career on top. I recollect all the hard-work and dedication given by Paul Hard, who came everyday prepared to give 110%.

I remember the trips to Notre Dame and Franklin Park, the long runs, the workouts, and most importantly, the honor of donning the Fairfield uniform with these great friends.

While for many of you, graduation from college may mark the end of your competitive careers, always remember the times we had as Fairfield runners and the accomplishments you achieved. I hope you guys look back on your time spend with the team fondly, and may you find success and happiness in all that you do. Keep running.

Season Highlights - 2003 marked another successful season for the Stags, who despite early injuries and loss of key runners maintained their 6th place standing in the MAAC Conference. Led by captains Matt Borland '04 and Bryan Mahoney '05, Fairfield performed well in a number of meets throughout the season, including a 2nd place finish at the 27th annual Fairfield Invitational and the New England Championships in Boston, in which many Stags set personal marks. The 2003 season marked Head Coach Andrew Harrington's third season at the helm of his alma mater, as well as the first for assistant coach Erin Heslin.

The Women's Cross Country team started their season with a sixth place finish in the 2003 Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference (MAAC) Championships on Friday, October 31. The Stags were led by Shannon Kenefick '06 who traversed the course in 23:59.3 for an overall 18th place finish. Captain Lauren Wilson '05 was second on the team with a 24:21.2, and Colleen Brassler '05 closed out the top three for the Stags with a 24:42.1. Julie Wargo '05 (24:56.3), Kara O'Connell '06 (25:13.5), Taylor Dunn '04 (25:26.7), Cara Muzik '06 (25:39.3), and Liz Casey '07 (26:52.6) closed the books on the Stags scoring.

The team closed out their 2003 season on Saturday, November 15 at the NCAA Northeast Regional at Franklin Park in Boston, Mass. Shannon Kenefick once again finished first for Fairfield with a 23:44 over the 6,000-meter course. Lauren Wilson was next with a 24:05, followed by Cara Muzik (24:34), Colleen Brassler (25:05), Julie Wargo (25:09), Taylor Dunn (25:30), and Kara O'Connell (26:09).

Liz Avery, Colleen Brassler, and Cara Muzik were selected for the 2003 MAAC Women's Cross Country All-Academic Team.

Captains: Liz Avery and Lauren Wilson Team Members (listed in alphabetical order): Colleen Brassler, Maura Carle, Liz Casey, Kelli Conners, Taylor Dunn, Shannon Kenefick, Meagan Leduc, Kristine Lynch, Jessica McElroy, Cara Muzik, Kara O'Connell, Maryellen Pribish, Stephanie Stote, Julie Wargo.

Taylor, Kristine, Jess, and Liz,

It is impossible to sum up the hundreds of miles we have run together. Somewhere along the road between hill repeats, 12 x 400's, and 10 milers we became great runners, great friends.

Under your guidance and leadership you have made us better runners and better students. We wish you all the best of luck in the future, and know you'll remain true runners, in the sport for the long run.

Love,
Your Sexy XC's

Women's Volleyball

Through their passion for this game, these four seniors received more than they signed on for since freshman year. Their numbers are fantastic. They've taken award after award and yet through this, these four have created a friendship that will go beyond a lifetime.

They participated in two NCAA Tournaments, claimed three MAAC Championship Trophies and participated in the MAAC Tournament all four years. In their freshman year, they competed against Pepperdine University in the NCAA Tournament and lost 3 to 1. This was an unbelievable game. In their sophomore year, they played at Penn State but lost in 3 games. They repeatedly competed against the top teams in the country, including Stanford, Brigham Young, Utah, Xavier, Notre Dame and Syracuse. The four of them took home some big awards as well.

Kelly Sorensen was MAAC Rookie of the year in 2000 and Fairfield University's freshman of the year in 2000. She was a two time all conference player and endured two shoulder surgery's in four years. She currently sits as number three in all time assists, generating assists in just three years. She also represented the MAAC Conference as their SAAC President in 2002 to 2004. She further represented the MAAC Conference at the NCAA Conventions. She was also one of the leaders for the SAAC at Fairfield. Kelly has accepted a job in NYC at Federated Merchandising Group and is anxious to begin her career in fashion.

Laurie Brands was named MAAC Tournament MVP in 2001 at the Conference Championships. She broke the 1000 count mark in two categories, digs and kills. In her sophomore year, Laurie was ranked nationally for her service aces by using her fierce jump serve. Laurie is pursuing a career in public relations in professional sports.

Becky Guess was not only named All-Academic for all of her time at Fairfield, but she is also famous for her sidespin serve. She earned 138 service aces and sits at number six for all time. She was also named to numerous All-Conference teams. Becky is also a distinguished writer. She has had eight poems recently published and has won numerous competitions for her writing. Becky will attend graduate school in the fall and will be getting married to her longtime boyfriend Ryan Cantor this summer.

Kristin Anderson was also a very accomplished student athlete. Beyond her athletic awards she was named All-Academic for all four years at Fairfield. Kristin was extremely accomplished in the last two years at Fairfield. She was an All-Conference player in 2002 and 2003 and MAAC All-Tournament Team in the 2002 season. She sits at number four for all time blocks and number three for all time block assists. Kristin is a communications major and hopes to become a sports broadcaster in the future.

The four seniors have had experiences that went beyond what they could have ever anticipated. They played everywhere, from playing in front of a crowd of 5000 in California to the Alumni Hall, where they loved to play. These girls have a passion for a sport that will last a lifetime. However, their friendship that they've created while running lines, Coach King's PTA, to lifting weights, to happy times and sad times they will always have each other, which is more than they could have ever asked for.

Men's

Basketball

Fairfield University captain Rob Thomson received the most valuable player award at the team's annual awards banquet. Head Coach Tim O'Toole presented the award to his senior center at the Bridgeport Holiday Inn, culminating a night of celebrating the team's 19-11 overall record.

The evening began with master of ceremonies Jim Fitzpatrick asking the crowd of 100-plus fans, administrators and family members if they could recall a pair of games more exciting than the home wins over George Washington and Niagara. He then challenged the group to think of a center who enjoyed a season as good as Rob Thomson's 2003-04 campaign. The rhetorical questions made for an interesting prelude to the awards portion of the dinner.

Head Coach Tim O'Toole started the program by making comments about the season. He said one word described the 2003-04 season - miraculous. While that word has become jaded especially in the sports vernacular, it was put to proper use on this occasion. The seventh-year head coach spoke with pride about how special this team was, and how much he enjoyed coaching the squad.

From there, Assistant Coach Jerry Hobbie presented Tyquawn Goode and Rob Thomson with an award as the team leaders in assists and rebounds, respectively. Assistant Coach John Carey followed by giving an award to Deng Gai as the team's top defender and Brad Feleccia as the squad's top reserve.

Coach Tim Ryan stepped to the podium and honored Rob Thomson with the Iron Stag award, given to the player who accumulates the most minutes during the season. He had the pleasure of presenting senior manager Michael Lopiano with the Steve Haggis award, secured through dedication and devotion to the men's basketball program.

Fairfield alumnus Robert J. Brennan presented the Jerry Lademan award to DeWitt Maxwell for the sophomore's academic achievement. Brennan continued by announcing the Pat Burke award would go to Tyquawn Goode, an honor bestowed on the player for hustle and desire. Mr. Brennan capped the evening by giving Rob Thomson the MVP award. He concluded by congratulating the team on an outstanding season, noting the team won 38 games in the last two years, surpassed only by the 1985-86 and 1986-87 teams' 39 wins. Coincidentally, Coach O'Toole captained those two teams.

Women's

Basketball

The annual banquet for the women's basketball team recognized all of the team members, including the four graduating seniors, Marybeth Chartier, Thais Celiberto, Schrene Isidora, and Milica Miljkovic. In addition, senior manager Kate Bourquin was honored for her four years of service for the women's basketball team.

Also this season four players earned awards voted on by the team and the coaching staff. The awards involve a theme, Passion, Discipline, and Loyalty, which will be the motto for the 2004-05 season.

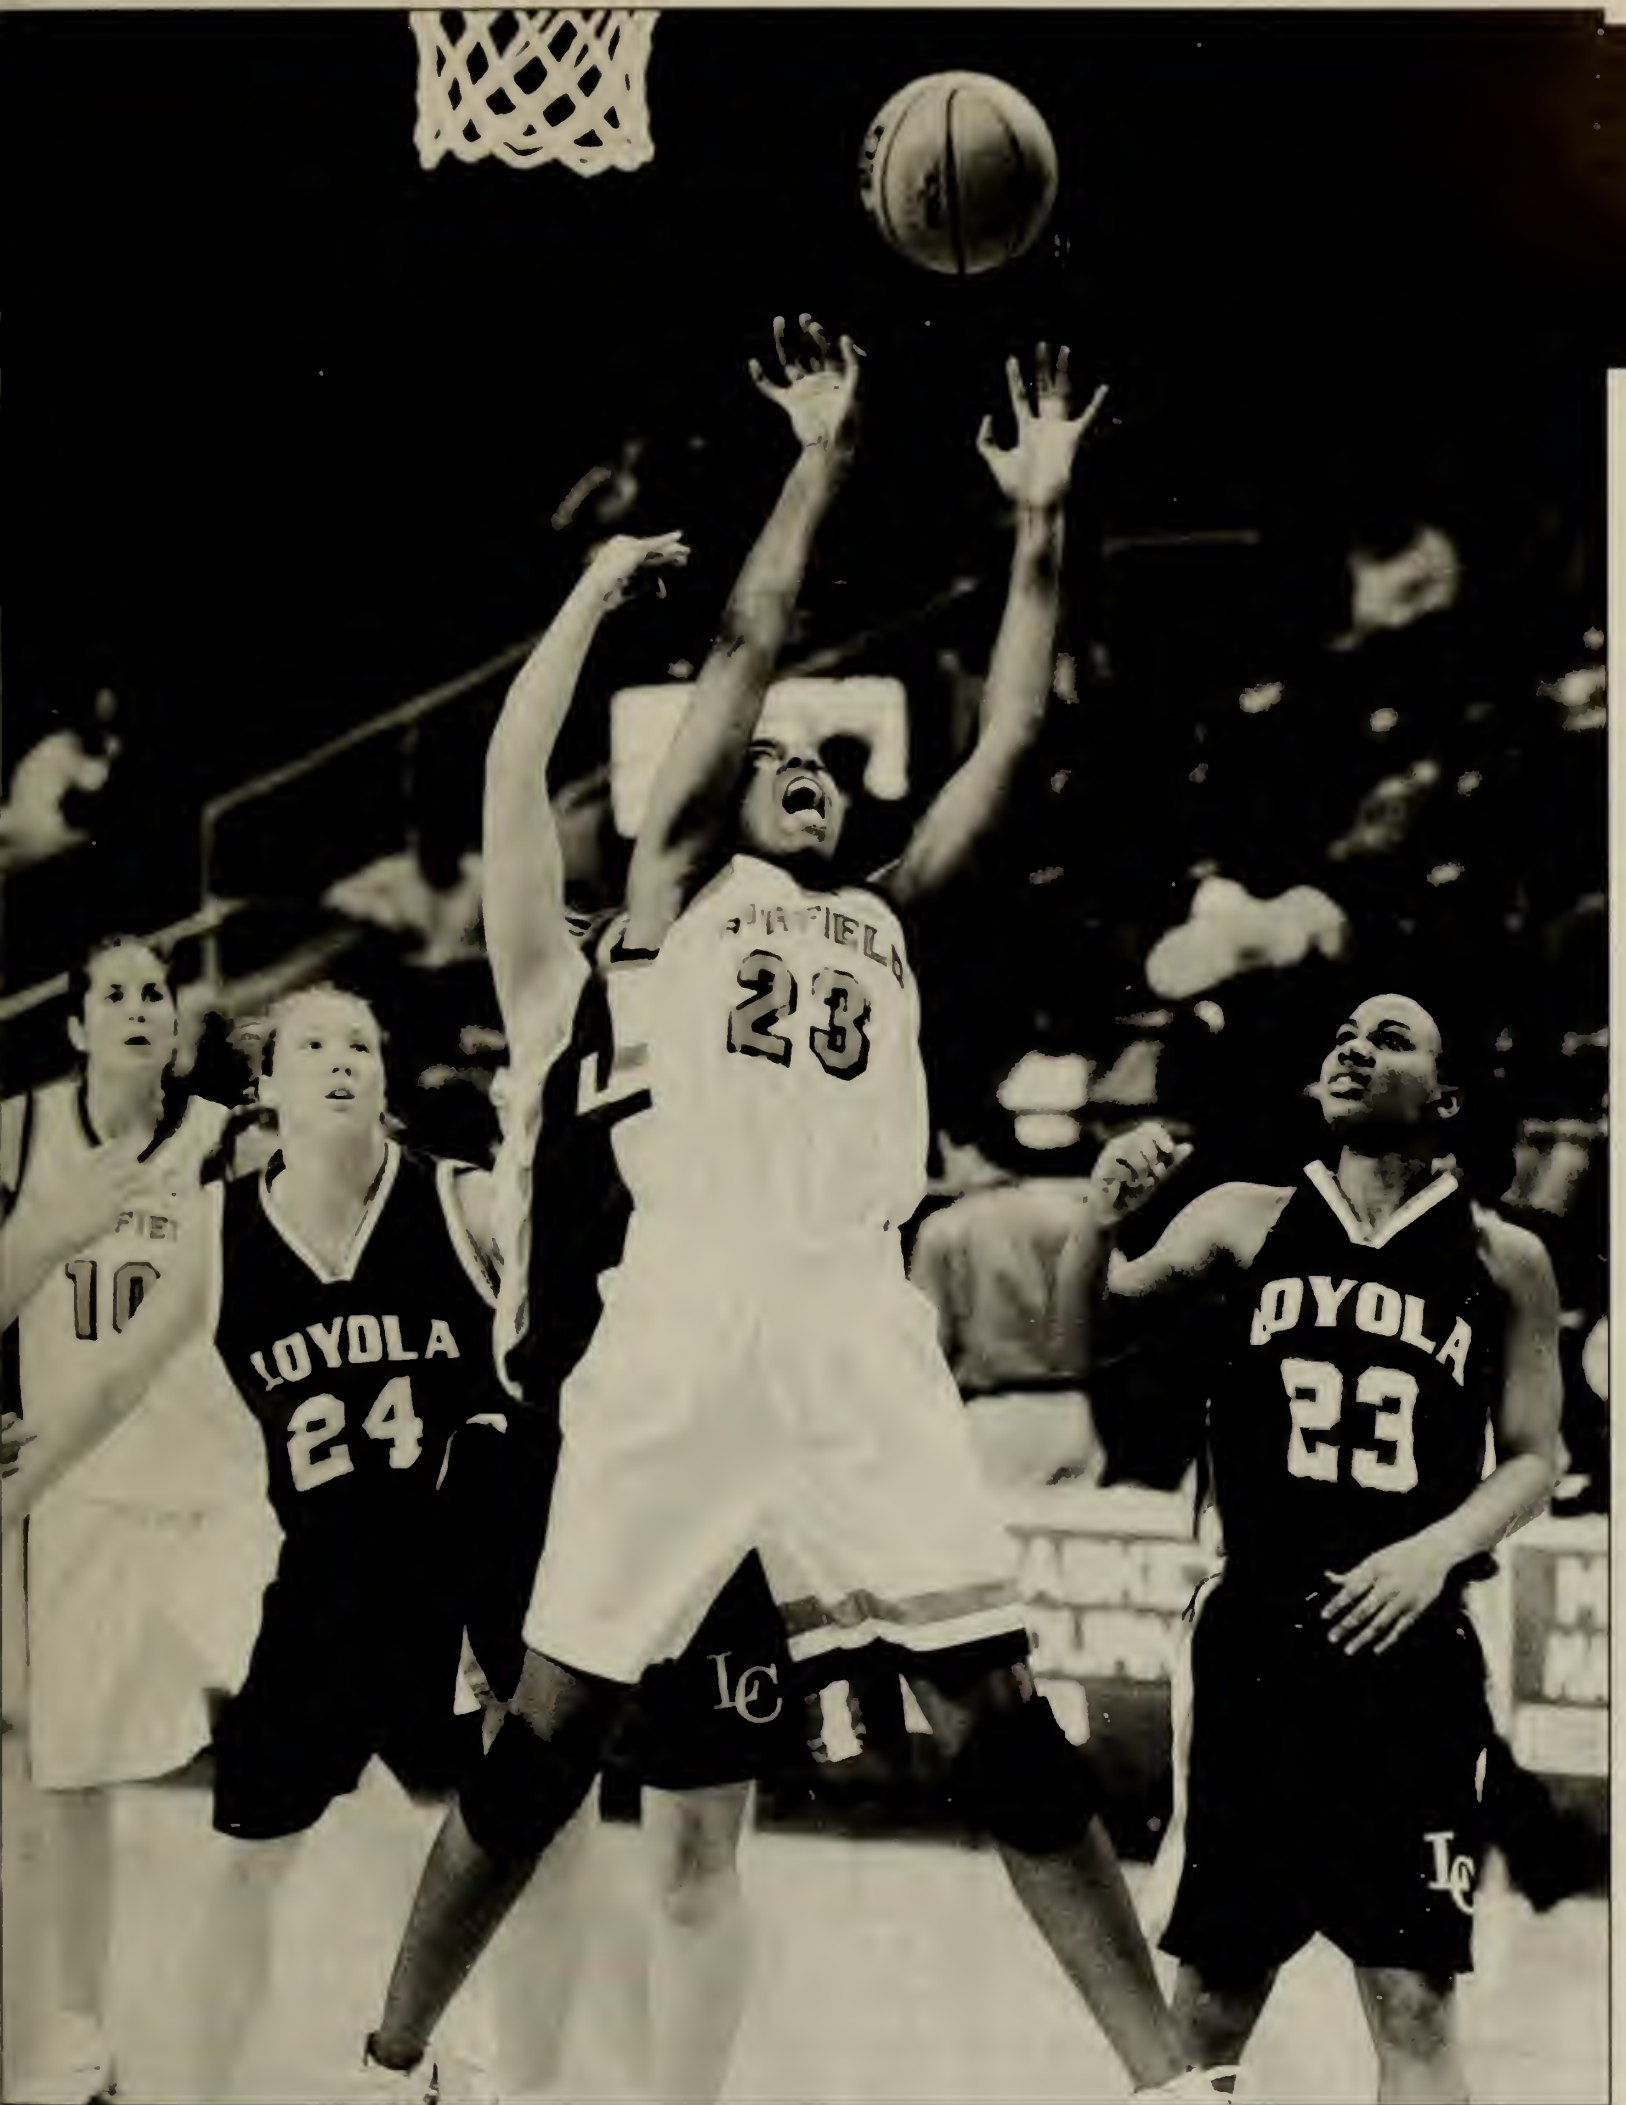

Rising junior Clare Faurote garnered the Mr. B "Loyalty" Award, given to the player who exemplifies a team player, and for a team member who has stayed true to her team, the program and herself. Faurote appeared in 11 games as a reserve for the Stags in the 2003-04 season, averaging 3.4 minutes per game.

Chartier was the recipient of the Terry Voegler-Allers "Discipline" Award, given to the player who gets the job done when it needs to be done, the player who meets every deadline with thoroughness and enthusiasm. The Dayville, Conn., native was thrust into the starting lineup in the first game of her sophomore season, and became the workhorse for the Stags the next three seasons. As a senior she played in 21 games, despite missing time due to an injury, and averaged 7.5 points per game, and dished out 71 assists.

Celiberto was presented the L. William Miles "Passion" Award, given to the player who plays with passion, and who distinguished herself by her desire to play, and someone who shows heart for her team, and plays for the love of the game. The Sao Paulo, Brazil native, played two seasons for the Stags, and exuded energy and enthusiasm every time she took the court.

basketball program. The Teresa B. Kelley "Most Valuable" Award was given to rising senior Janelle McManus. The award is given to the player who excelled in every drill at practice and on the court in games. McManus was the team's leading scorer with 11.9 points per game, and earned a spot on the post-season third-team All-Metro Atlantic Conference.

One year after not scoring a single point at the ECAC Championships, the Fairfield University women's swimming and diving team placed 12th overall with 92 points while the men's team took 24th place with 23.5 points.

Two school-records fell during the championships, both in relay events. The women's 200-yard medley relay team of Meghan Magura, Jennifer Masi, Brittany Hunter and Kelly Steele set a new standard with a time of 1:53.51 while the men's 800 free relay team of Raul Delgadillo, Sean Killelea, Chip Stryker and Frank Vitulli broke a school-record with a time of 7:14.43. Both teams placed 13th in their respective events, scoring eight points for the Stags.

"The women have been trying to break that record all year and never could do it, so to break it at ECACs is a great achievement," said Head Coach Bill Farley. "The men who swam in the 800 free relay set that school-record at MAAC's, so to come back a week later and break it again is very special. It's very tough to go to a championship less than a week after a conference championship and put in that kind of performance."

Diver Chrissie Mayr was the Stags top finisher, taking third-place on the one-meter board with a score of 219.60, registering 16 points for the women. Mayr also took sixth-overall on the three-meter board with a score of 366.05. Katie Niemczyk, also put in an outstanding performance on both the one- and three-meter boards, placing ninth in both events.

The women's relay team swam well throughout the championships, taking eighth in the 400 free relay and scoring in the 200 free relay with a 12th place finish.

Individually, Hunter was the other big-scorer for the women, racking up points in the 200 IM with a 14th place finish and taking 16th in the 200 back.

As he has all season, Vitulli led the men's team, scoring in all of the events in which he swam, taking 10th in the 1,650 free with a time of 16:26.04, placing 11th in the 500 free with a time of 4:41.05 and finishing in 14th place in the 200 free.

With the conclusion of the ECAC Championships, the Stags finished one of the most successful swimming and diving seasons in recent school history.

Stags Place Four on NEILA East/West Senior All Star Team

Four members of the Fairfield University men's lacrosse team have been selected to participate in the New England Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association (NEILA) East/West Senior All Star game as was announced today. The four chosen Stags are Rory McCarthy (Camillus, N.Y.), Matt Baglio (Brightwaters, N.Y.), Nate Bauers (Oakton, Va.) and Peter Vlahakis (Shoreham, N.Y.).

McCarthy, a team captain, was the 2003 team offensive MVP and was named to the All-GWLL team last season. A model of consistency, he scored at least one point in 13-of-14 games this season, tallying 17 goals and 13 assists for 30 points on the year. For his career he ranks ninth in Fairfield history in points (88) and is 10th overall in both goals (52) and assists (36).

Baglio, a midfielder, has been a consistent offensive threat throughout the past two years for the Stags. This season, he stepped up his production and finished the season ranked fourth on the team in points (25) and goals (16).

Bauers, a team captain this season, has anchored the defense for the Stags. An All-GWLL Second Team selection the past two seasons, he is one of only two seniors on the team to have seen action in all 52 games played during the past four years. This year, he ranked second on the team with 52 ground balls.

Vlahakis, one of the top face-off men in the nation, has ranked in the top-10 in the country in face-off win percentage for the past four years. He finished this season third in the nation, boasting a .645 win percentage. A 2004 Preseason third team All-American, he also led the team and is tied for eighth in the nation with 5.75 ground balls per game.

Women's Lacrosse

Three Make All-MAAC Team

Fairfield University standout Beth Loffredo (Saratoga Springs, N.Y.) has been named MAAC Women's Lacrosse Offensive Player of the Year, while senior Colleen Sindall (Silver Spring, Md.) and Canisius' Elise Crawford were named Co-Defensive Players of the Year by the leagues head coaches and headline this season's All-MAAC Teams.

Loffredo, the 2003 MAAC Rookie of the Year, finished third in the conference in goals per game (2.20) and second in points per game (3.00). She was also fourth in the conference in assists per game (0.80).

Sindall, a First Team All-MAAC selection last season, finished second on the team in caused turnovers with 15, and third in both draw controls (17) and ground balls (21). Joining Loffredo and Sindall on the All-MAAC First Team was senior Jessica Conahan (Milton, Mass.). Conahan was a second team selection last season.

The Stags also placed four members on the 2004 New York Lottery All-Academic Team. Senior Kathleen Crane (Washington Crossing, Pa.), and senior Lauren DeSteno (Spring Lake, N.J.) both made the team for the third-straight year while junior Kate Dillor (Lower Gwynedd, Pa.) gained her second selection. Sophomore Katie Voight (Rockville Center, N.Y.) made the team for the first time.

Men's

Tennis

Through injuries, young talent, and a tough schedule, the Fairfield Men's Tennis Team exceeded many expectations during their season by taking 3rd place in the MAAC. The team started off with some hard fought tournaments in the fall and by winter they were ready for training. Strength and conditioning was the theme of the winter as the team got faster and stronger for their upcoming spring season, where competition was expected to be the toughest in years. Senior Captains Mike Theile and Colin Torrance had faith in the young squad and after a great regular season, they knew the team was ready for the MAAC Tournament. Capturing the 4th seed, the men found themselves battling conference foe Niagara for 3rd place on the final day of competition. Even though the Stags lost to Niagara 5-2 in the regular season, the team was set to make some racket in the men's bracket. Fairfield beat their rival 6-1 to capture 3rd place and the team's first win over Niagara in over 4 years. The Stags had a great season and the team knew they were winners from the first day of practice. Through hard work and determination this team had a great season and one the team will never forget.

Women's Tennis

Women's Tennis Accomplished Many Feats In 2003-04

The Fairfield University women's tennis team, just completed one of those exhilarating seasons, capped off with its sixth Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference (MAAC) Championship, and first-ever NCAA Tournament appearance. Although it fell to the No. 4 seeded, and number-10 ranked University of Washington in the first-round of the NCAA's, the Stags have something they can take away from the experience.

"The way some of the underclassman played (in the NCAA Tournament), I was very impressed with," Head Coach Jeff Wyshner said after the Washington match in Seattle. "Megan and Taylor proved they can hit with the number-four seed in the country. Although we didn't win too many games, we were out there competing."

The Stags finished the season a school-record 19- in the MAAC. They the number-one

Also in the fall, the Stags had their best-ever second-place finish at the New England Championships.

Individually, the Stags had two 20-match winners in singles play, as senior Andrea Suriano finished the season with a 20-5 singles record, including a 15-4 mark at No. 3 singles. Sophomore Megan Stauffer was 21-4 overall, and 18-3 at No. 5 singles.

Baseball Takes MAAC Series With 2-1 Win at Iona

The Fairfield University baseball team held off a late-inning rally by Iona, to take the rubber-game of a Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference (MAAC) series, winning 2-1 on Sunday afternoon, at J.B. Buono Field. The win clinches the Stags second MAAC series win in a row, and fourth on the season, as they improve to 14-20 overall and 9-9 in the MAAC.

For the third game of the series the Stags posted a run in their first at-bat. This time Fairfield took advantage of an Iona miscue as sophomore (Randolph, N.J./scored when Lynn (Montville, reached by on an shortstop.

In the ninth, Iona's James LaSala stroked a two-out RBI single to score Mike Pereone who doubled to left center field with one out. However the Gael rally would end when pinch-hitter Tim filed out to right field.

Senior Matt Young (Berlin, Conn./Berlin) picked up his second win of the season, hurling seven innings of shutout baseball, yielding five hits and two walks.

Young (2-2) struck out seven Gaels before turning the ball over to Freshman Ed Kamintzky (Astoria, N.Y./Regis) who earned his first college save despite giving up a run in the bottom of the ninth inning. Kamintzky pitched two innings allowing one run on two hits and a walk. The Regis graduate struck out three batters on the day.

Anderson was 1-for-4 with a double and a run scored for the Stags, while Hudyma was 2-for-5 with one run scored. Barnett was 2-for-4. Senior Mike Wray (Mahopac, N.Y./Mahopac) was 2-for-2 with a walk.

LaSala finished the day 4-for-4 with a run batted in for the Gaels, and Perrone was 1-for-3 with a run scored. Chris Lopez took the loss for Iona, as he lasted four and two-thirds innings on the hill, allowing one run on eight hits. James Kosky pitched four and a third scoreless innings in relief.

Women's

Softball

With just one weekend left on the regular-season schedule, the Fairfield University softball team sits atop of the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference standings with a 10-4 record. That record gives the Stags an opportunity to clinch their second straight MAAC regular-season title and the top seed for the 2004 MAAC tournament. They could clinch the title outright with a pair of wins against 2nd place Manhattan College. With a split, Fairfield would still be able to clinch the regular-season title with some help from other conference teams. Head Coach Julie Brzezinski watched her team sweep a pair of conference opponents last week, taking down Marist College and Siena College. Fairfield hopes to continue its strong finish to the conference season, winning six straight MAAC games and eight of its last nine conference contests. Cagney Ringnalda remains the team's top hitter, a position she has held for the last few weeks. Her 27 RBI are second only to senior Laura Sandonato, who places second among her teammates with a .321 hitting percentage. Rookie Tracy Sylvestre posted her 14th win of the season last week, and brings a team-best 1.71 ERA into this weekend's action. Sophomore Tara Hansen (5-7 overall, 2.26 ERA) and Ringnalda (4-5, 3.54) have also seen a great deal of work this year.

Women's Crew Honors Seniors at Year-End Banquet

With one event left on the schedule, the women's crew gathered to look back on the 2003-04 season and honor the team's seniors. The team's annual awards banquet took place on May 2.

Head Coach Andre Albert and assistant coach Katie Remley honored the senior class, which leaves Fairfield with a great deal of accomplishment. The class of 2004 included Andrea Bazos (Longmeadow, Mass.), Amy Ferguson (E. Amherst, N.Y.), Mary Claire Finnen (Pleasant Valley, N.Y.), Katie Gill (Abington Mass.), Maura O'Connor (Roxbury, Mass.) and Christine Opiela (Charlottesville, Va.).

O'Connor both during their four-year tenure. O'Connor and Finnen are both Fullbright nominees. Bazos, O'Connor are Academic award recipients. "Each senior class made contributions to our program," Head Coach Andre said, "I am proud of their accomplishments both on the water and in the class room.

This is a special group of student athletes and they will be missed."

Coach Albert also announced the team individual awards at the banquet. He presented Brittany Teehan with the Stags Rookie of the Year award. The Coach's Award, given to a student-athlete who has made significant contributions to the program both athletically and academically, went to senior Maura O'Connor. The Marguerite O'Meara Award was presented to Mary Claire Finnen for her contribution and dedication to the Fairfield University crew program.

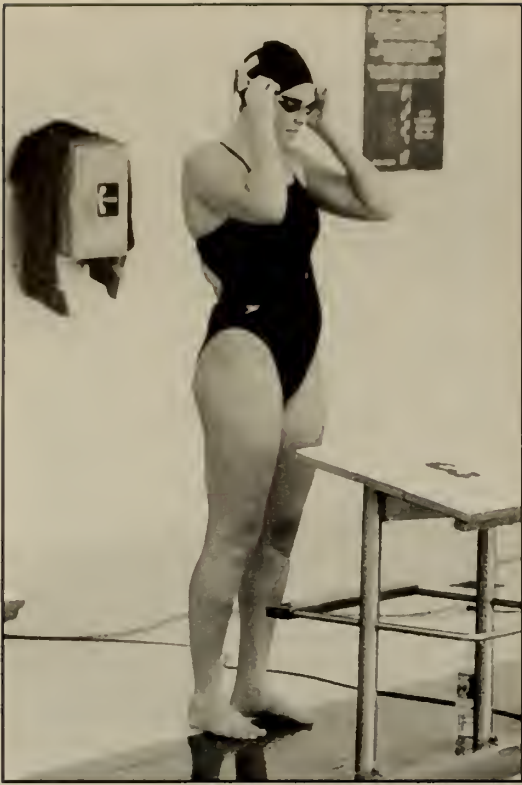

Gill and Finnen are both also MAAC All-recipients. member of our significant our program," Head Albert said, "I am accomplishments and in the class room.

In Loving Memory of

“Do not live passively, but be extraordinary,”

Frank wrote in his Valedictory Address. Francis John Marx V applied these words every day of his life. As a dedicated family member, friend, classmate, housemate, and teammate Frankie's beaming smile and good nature were contagious to everyone he met. Frank was the kind of guy who could tell when you were having a rough day, and he was always there to offer a quick joke to lighten your spirits or some thoughts on how you might be able to make things better. Frank was extremely talented, however he was exceedingly humble. Even though Frank could do a near perfect job at anything he attempted, he never boasted. He was always encouraging and offering positive reinforcement to his friends.

There was no challenge Frank was afraid to tackle, no frown he couldn't turn into a smile, no stranger he couldn't befriend and no problem that he couldn't solve. Frank indeed had the whole package. Frank ouched the lives of everyone he met in some way; whether congratulating a classmate on a job well done, sharing laughs over a few libations with his friends, or always persevering through the hardest of times during his crew career and maintaining his contagious positive attitude that often turned things around for his team.

Frank J. Marx V

August 22, 1982 - May 20, 2004

Frank often said "gimme life straight, no chasers" and he did just that. Frank knew exactly who he was and what he wanted to do. He lived his life with purpose always remembering that his faith in God came first, and he let his strong faith guide his decisions.

As his short life tragically ended this past May, Frank now continues his humble service to others with God. There are no words to describe the pain and suffering many of us feel from the loss of Frank. Frankie was one of a kind. Though few of us often say it, Frank was never reluctant to say "I love you" to his friends and show it through his kindness and his smile. Frank, we love you and we miss you.

C O L O P H O N

The MANOR 2004, was published by the Herff Jones Yearbook Company located in Gettysburg, Pa. 17325. The total press run for this years edition consisted of 600 copies using a 9 x 12 page size format. The staffs original cover design was created using a custom embossed cover process featuring custom cut embossing and foil dies. The base material of vibra-tex matte crimson red #41013 was silkscreened with #26 black. Silver foil #F-01 was also applied to the front cover. The endsheets were printed on 65 pound custom fibertext filament FCF-2 navajo stock using a custom pantone mixed red and #950 black litho inks. The paper stock chosen for the entire book consisted of Meade Westvaco's triple coated 100 pound bordeaux stock. Special effects consisted of 4-Color Process photos and spot color backgrounds. Percentage screens of black, overprints, reverses, mortices, rule lines and shades texture screens were also utilized throughout. The opening color essay contained an application of UV ultra violet coating to all 4-Color photos. Our Professional Photographer was Varden Studios, located in Rochester, New York. Our Publishers Representative and friend is Dale Alger of Bedford, New York and Jim Miely of Yonkers, New York. Our Customer Service Person in Gettysburg is Ms. Barb Hale. Additional credits go to the Herff Jones Art Department for their creative renderings of the cover, endsheet, interior, and division spreads. We'd like to give special thanks to Mr. James Fitzpatrick, our faculty adviser whose commitment and dedication make this yearbook special.
